

The following establishments are kosher certified.

In some of the stores, some of the toppings are not approved (Gummy worms, marshmallows, and fresh berries that have not been checked for infestation). In Krispy Kreme stores the AKC doesn't certify the beverages found in the front of the facilities. Most of the facilities are kosher dairy, but may have some pareve options. Check the kosher letter to be sure. Some of these stores are franchises, and only the locations listed below are certified.

The AKC takes no responsibility for the calorie or fat content of the products.
